

OLDER BOYS' CONFERENCE CAME TO CLOSE SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Y. M. C. A. Work in Various Parts of World Discussed—Y and Christianity Playing Large Part in Enlightenment of China and India.

Saturday, the second day of the Older Boys' Conference, gathered here to discuss "The Boys of the World," proved more interesting and enjoyable than the first. In the morning, at nine o'clock the "What to Do" conferences were held in the rooms of the St. James Church. Each delegation gathered in a room by itself and talked over what had been heard the day before. Then followed the regular morning session, with the usual devotional exercises. The Rev. Mr. Thomas, addressed the conference, his text for the day being the first verse of Romans, XV. "We then that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves."

The speaker of the morning was introduced. A. R. Lenz, secretary of the Foreign Work Department of the Y. M. C. A., spoke on the work in China. There is going on now in China, he said, a revolution against the old order and a supporting of the new discoveries in science and the democracy of the western world. Some of the revolutionaries are opposed to Christianity, calling it as the enemy to democracy; others are asking for more of it, accepting it as democracy's best friend. These revolutions are political, intellectual, and economical. Machinery and other modern inventions are being brought into China more and more. Now it is not a process of giving the Orient the new things in the world, but showing the people there how to use these modern articles, scientific discoveries, and religious beliefs. This generation is what might be called China's "Ferry-across Generation." It is these young people who will have to throw off the old and assimilate the new civilization, the next taking up where the present left off.

Mr. Lenz said that the field is so broad, opportunities so numerous in China, that if it had two lives and a million dollars, the whole of it would go for "Y" work in that country.

After the address, the fellows adjourned to the small rooms to discuss in their own delegations what had just been talked about. At dismissal a group picture was taken, and then the rush for the "Y" lunch was in order. After lunch, singing was led by Harry Dodge, Mr. Thomas presiding at the piano. Abraham Hoffman, president of the Kingston Rotary Club, welcomed the boys in behalf of his club. He gave a brief but very interesting sketch of the history of Kingston, and then some statistics of the Ashokan reservoir by which they could get a better idea of the immensity of the artificial lake.

Those who cared to make the trip went around the Ashokan reservoir in cars furnished by the Rotary, the others taking in the interesting sights about the city. At six thirty the conference dinner was held. At each place was found an envelope with a folder of Catalpa mountain scenes and a watch-fob with a picture of the Senate House, these the compliments of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. After the dinner, a short entertainment was given. The orchestra of the First Presbyterian Church gave several selections. Vernon Judge, a delegate from New York city gave two humorous monologues, which were enjoyed to the fullest by all present. Mr. Goldthorp led the singing of several popular songs, and then the conference settled down to business. Greetings were read from the four other conferences which announced the total attendance at all five as over three thousand. The Kingston greeting to the others announced attendance here as 146.

Frank Mohler, a member of the faculty of Springfield College, was the speaker of the evening, his talk being in line with the other lectures of the conference, what we can do and ought to do to help the other fellow out.

In China, in India, or any other place, humans are just ordinary folk. All humanity is the same the world over, there is no inferiority, no superiority.

In any small town of India a few years ago, one could find a working out of a wonderful system, the village system. Each man had his own work to do, and that was all he did. Each man performed his duty for every other person in the village and in return got food and service from the rest. No one got paid for there was no money. Everyone was contented in his simple life. Soon, the western world began to make itself felt in that country. Machines and factory work replaced the individual workers. Home sits were lost. The formerly happy peasant had to go to work in the factories where he was crowded down for the enrichment of the owner. He grew to hate the machine, the man that owned the machine, and finally the west from whence it came. The reaction in India is the Ghandi movement. He is trying to restore the old village system, but the possibility of its success is very doubtful. In China the factory has also become a menace. For years run them and earn big dividends.

While we are superior to the people of the Orient, there are many

MAIL ORDER BRIDE SEEKS ALIMONY

Jagger Won Wife From Sunny South by Correspondence But She Remained Here Only a Week.

Mail order marriages, like many other mail order acquisitions, often do not measure up to expectations. This evidently is the situation in the marriage of Frank A. Jagger and Carrie Leese Jagger, who were married in this city last June following a mail courtship. She comes from the sunny south and he is a resident of Kingston.

Carrie Leese Jagger, through her attorney, Frank W. Brooks, brought an action to recover counsel fees and alimony. The matter was heard before Justice Rosch Saturday morning in special term of the supreme court and after the matter was explained by Mr. Brooks, attorney for plaintiff, and Judge William D. Brinnier, Jr., of the firm of Brinnier & Brinnier, Judge Rosch took the papers and reserved decision.

In summing up the case Judge Brinnier explained that it had been a courtship by correspondence, a marriage by correspondence, and now plaintiff sought to recover money from the defendant by correspondence. She no longer resides here but has returned to Virginia. In fact, her stay in Kingston was but a brief one.

Frank Jagger, 28 years old, of this city, where he is engaged in business as an optician, and the plaintiff, Carrie A. Leese, became acquainted by correspondence, he reading her name in the advertisement of a matrimonial journal. The acquaintance which developed by correspondence through the matrimonial agency resulted in her coming to New York city, where she met Jagger. They came to Kingston and were married at St. Joseph's rectory on June 26, 1922.

Plaintiff described herself as "Carrie A. Leese," 1208 Windsor avenue, Bristol, Tenn., pretty blonde, with blue eyes, 5 feet 3 inches, 115 pounds, Irish, milliner, good education, have good income and have means, wish to marry some good, true gentleman." From this description defendant decided it was worth while to carry on the correspondence further and they met by appointment at the Pennsylvania Hotel in New York city and came to Kingston and went to reside at the home of defendant's parents.

However, the next morning she expressed herself dissatisfied with the marriage and expressed herself as wishing to go back home. She said she did not want to remain in Kingston and was sorry she had married the defendant. The marriage took place on Monday and the following Sunday she left. Defendant claims that he tried to persuade her to remain but when she insisted on returning home he gave her a check for $35 and $23 in cash and paid her railroad fare and sleeper in Pullman amounting to over $20 for which she gave him a receipt which was annexed to the papers presented in court.

The defendant also denied that he told her that she was not as beautiful as he expected and a photograph is also attached to the papers. He also said that during the time she resided with him she told him of all the nice fellows she had down south, one of them a millionaire, and how they had loved her and took her out for a good time.

Defendant claims that he was always ready and willing to support her and desired her to remain with him, but that she told him she did not want a quiet life but wanted a "wild life," where she could have lots of good times. She claims that she was frightened by her mother-in-law.

Defendant also claims that plaintiff told him that she had a half interest in the Leese estate amounting to several thousand dollars and that she did not need any help or assistance from defendant and that she could and would support herself. She also, according to the affidavits of defendant, told him that her uncle was very wealthy and she expected to inherit a part of his wealth.

The correspondence was carried on for some time before the meeting in New York city as is shown by a letter attached to the affidavit of defendant which is dated November 17, 1921 and reads:

Bristol, Tenn., Box 368, Nov. 27, 1921.

Dear Mr. Jagger:

In reply to your letter received a few days past, it is very interesting. Would have answered sooner but I have been away for a few days vacation.

It is perfectly all right for you to tell me about yourself, as that is the only way we have to know each other, through correspondence. Judging from your letter, you must be very intelligent and I imagine very handsome.

Well, I am going to talk now about myself. You ask me to give a description. I am very neat in appearance, light brown hair, blue eyes, fair complexion, height 5 feet, weigh 100 pounds, have high school education, age 23, am milliner, and know the art of dressing well.

I am from Virginia. My home is in Scott county in the country. Though I live in the city most of the time, only spend my vacation on the farm. I have a beautiful country home though I like city life the best as I always have a nice position in town. Am enclosing a small picture of myself on a post card, it is the only one I have at present. I was one of the models at the spring opening of the millinery store here and this picture was made then. Suppose we exchange pictures, would be delighted, if you

ISSUE JOINED AT LAUSANNE; CONFERENCE IN CRITICAL STAGE

Russians Join Turks in Insisting That Only Latter's Warships Shall Use Straits and Turk Forts be Restored—Curzon Sees No Way Out.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Lausanne, Dec. 4.—Making common cause of their demands the Russians and Turks threw a bombshell into the Near East peace conference today when they formally asked that the Turkish straits be closed to all warships except Turkish and that the Dardanelles be fortified by the Turks as they were before the great war.

The demand was voiced by George Tchitcherine, head of the Russian Soviet delegation.

Ismet Pasha, leader of the Turkish envoys, followed saying that "Russia's declaration was entirely satisfactory to the Turks."

The conference was thrown into consternation, for there had been made evidence that the Turks and Russians were drifting apart and would not execute their threat to form a bloc against the Allies.

Lord Curzon, head of the British delegation and Eleutherios Venizelos, head of the Greek envoys, left the meeting without speaking. Both were most pessimistic over the developments.

By pooling their demands, the Turks and Russians threaten to precipitate a deadlock of the straits question immediately.

Members of the British delegation in conversation with International News Service charged that Tchitcherine did not wish a solution of the Turkish straits, but was only here to make trouble.

A meeting of Lord Curzon, Marquis Giamontini of Italy, and M. Barere, of France, was summoned for this afternoon, when, it was expected, the fate of the conference would be decided.

"In view of the action of Russia and Turkey there does not seem to be any use of going ahead," remarked Lord Curzon when the meeting of the Turkish straits commission broke up at noon.

GREEK KING IS NOT A PRISONER

Revolutionists Deny He Intends To Leave Athens—Andrew On Way To Exile In England.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Dec. 4.—Official denial has been issued by the Greek revolutionary committee at Athens that King George is a prisoner or that he intends to leave Greece, said a news agency despatch from Athens this afternoon.

Athens, Dec. 4.—Prince Andrew, who was banished from Greece for life by a military court and his wife, Princess Alice, are enroute today for Corfu, their former home, where they will stop briefly to gather together their personal effects before continuing their journey to England.

They are traveling on a British warship. England will be their future home. The princess is related to the British royal family through the Mountbatten branch.

Trials of accused state officials will continue.

A statement was issued by the Greek revolutionary committee today, defending the recent executions and revealing for the first time that the condemned ministers were offered an opportunity to retire into exile in England if Great Britain would give guarantees that they would never be allowed to return to Greece. The British guarantees were not forthcoming.

LUSITANIA HAD NO GUNS ABOARD

Malone's Report Reveals That Only War Stores Were Cases of Ammunition—Man Who Sank Her Arrives Here to Make Home.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 4.—Official revelation that the Cunard liner Lusitania carried neither troops nor guns when she was sunk by a German submarine on May 7, 1915—a revelation which will go far with future historians in establishing the reason for America's entry into the world war—was made here today by Dudley Field Malone, who was collector of the port of New York at the time.

Since June 4, 1915, when Mr. Malone's official report on the Lusitania's cargo was made to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, it has remained an official secret.

This report (as outlined by Mr. Malone), shows that when the Lusitania was torpedoed with the loss of 1,198 lives, 114 of the victims Americans, the only war stores in her cargo consisted of 5,400 cases of ammunition, but this shipment was permissible under a state department ruling made four years before the war began.

Contrary to the German contention, the vessel carried no guns, either masked or openly.

An interesting feature of the revelation was that just 24 hours before it was made public, Hugo Karl, who fired the first torpedo at the Lusitania, arrived in New York on the liner President Fillmore to make his future home in America. Karl was an expert marksman on the submarine U-39, which attacked the Lusitania off Kinsale, on the Irish coast. He was accompanied to the United States by his wife.

FEDERAL BUDGET $3,078,940,331, LESS THAN APPROPRIATIONS MADE

Deficit More Than Halved—Economies Have Done Much But Saving is Now Possible Only in Little Things, President Tells Congress—Army of 125,000 and Navy of 86,000 Provided For.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The budget of the United States for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1923, providing for appropriations aggregating $3,078,940,331 for the operation of the federal government, was transmitted to congress today by President Harding.

The total estimate is $195,298,359 less than the appropriations already made for the current fiscal year. This reduction was made possible, the president said, in a message accompanying the budget, by pursuing a policy emphasizing the "need of more rigid economy in the expenditure of public funds."

He took occasion at the same time to warn congress that further slashes would not be approved by the administration.

"While it may be possible," Mr. Harding said, "to make a small reduction in an item here and there, any material reduction will necessitate a change in the administration policy upon which estimates of appropriations for the fiscal year 1924 are based."

The president gave the estimate of expenditures for the next fiscal year as $3,189,842,234, pointing out that the estimate of cash withdrawals is to be distinguished from the estimate of appropriations contained in the budget since withdrawals during the fiscal year will be made from previous appropriations as well as from appropriations recommended in the budget.

In the beginning of his message, the president called attention to the reduction in the prospective deficit for the current fiscal year from $697,433,231 to $273,938,712 due to "continued pressure for economies and a revision of the expenditure program," and expressed hope that the close of the year on June 30, 1923, would show a balanced account.

The total ordinary receipts for the fiscal year 1924, excluding postal revenues, was estimated at $3,361,812,359, which is $747,291,791 less than the actual receipts for 1922 and $68,050,600 less than the estimated receipts for 1923. The post office department incurred large deficits in 1922 and 1923, but is expected during the coming fiscal year, President Harding said, to yield a surplus of more than $950,000.

"That we approach the commencement of the fiscal year 1924 with an estimated surplus for that year of $180,969,125, is certainly most encouraging," he continued. "While I am hopeful that there will be no deficit in the current fiscal year 1923, if such a deficit does occur, this surplus for 1924 will give a margin to take care of it."

The estimated appropriations for next year provide $1,010,070,886 for general functions, including the legislative, judicial, executive and general administrative operations of the government; $1,256,715,939 for military functions, including pensions, world war allowances and the national defense; $854,539,096 for civil functions which includes law enforcement, operation of the merchant marine, etc., and $1,355,720,692 for non-functions, such as payment of interest on the public debt and other fixed charges.

The amounts recommended for the national defense are designed to provide for an army of 120,000 officers and 125,000 enlisted men, the force now authorized by congress, and a navy of 86,000 men.

President Harding declared the retrenchment policy of the government since the signing of the armistice, had resulted in a "most satisfactory reduction in the expenditure of public moneys" and then put the question: "Can there be a reasonable expectation for further considerable reduction in governmental expenditures in the near future?"

"This question is no doubt upon the lips of many," he continued. "The burden of taxation caused by the World War has borne heavily upon us all, and it has been the earnest desire of the government to reduce this burden to the minimum consistent with a proper functioning of the federal services. We have seen, however, that approximately two thirds of the taxes collected go to pay certain fixed charges, over the expenditure of which there can be exercised little or no administrative control. The interest on the public debt, the chief of the fixed charges, must be paid. This will be $950,000 for the fiscal year 1924, constituting nearly one third of the total expenditure of the government. Among these are also certain permanent and definite appropriations for various purposes and certain large annual appropriations sanctioned by law and by public opinion.

"After deducting these items there is left approximately only one billion dollars out of which these normal operating expenses of the government must be paid. It is against this group of expenditures that the retrenchment policy of the government has been directed.

"Never before in our financial history has there been such close scrutiny on the part of both the executive and the congress of every item which contemplates expenditures for the support of the government. Not only have the departments themselves set up agencies of

LA FOLLETTE BALKS BUTLER NOMINATION

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Confirmation by the senate of the nomination of Pierce Butler, St. Paul lawyer, as associate justice of the United States Supreme Court, was blocked today by an objection raised in the senate by Senator La Follette, Republican, of Wisconsin.

The nomination will die automatically with the closing of the special session of congress shortly before noon today, and must be sent to the senate again by President Harding, when the last session of the 67th Congress is actually under way.

The senate was in closed executive session when La Follette's objection stopped further consideration of the Butler nomination.

PARIS HAT MODES

Chapeaux Reveal Surprises and Originalities That Thrill.

"Shaved Rooster" and "Burned Peacock" Among the New Materials Used by Milliners.

Hats are always the loveliest of all fashion creations. The milliners have the art of chapeau making developed to the last degree, and whatever they do is bound to be artistic as well as beautiful and suited in every way to the feminine mode of thinking and behaving. It is hard to pick one out from another as being a masterpiece in her art. The things they turn out are all so extraordinarily lovely. But a study of the hats and toques and turbans which come from the hands of each of them reveals surprise and originalities which are destined to thrill the heart of any woman bent upon dressing in the height of the season's mode.

Because there are so many high fur collars, Jane Blanchot makes all of her hats slightly narrower in the brim at back. She is making an equal proportion of large roll-brim hats and small toques, giving preference to neither one nor the other.

Velvet and panne velvet in all of the various gradations of the leather shades are used for her hats. And the scale of green is 'run in' many smart models. She uses, with great originality, feathers so that they stimulate the appearance of fur, giving in this way the smart look of a fur pluming in much less expensive medium. Charming as she uses gray stretch so that it appears as though it were nothing less than the luxurious chinchilla. Little ribbons exquisitely curled represent the spirit of astrakhan. A large hat of gray panne velvet is incrustated with huge circles of lace, leaving the sides of the crown transparent.

Some of the small hats are trimmed with a graceful draping of the material which is used for the hat itself. New materials noted are "shaved rooster," which process leaves a mere tuft of short feathers. There is also the "burned peacock," which means that the feather itself is burned away, leaving only the bare and slender spine.

SKATING SEASON DRAWS NEAR

The sweater is sand-colored. The scarf is of camel's hair and the skirt is of wool corduroy in sand, striped in brown to match.

COLLAR GIVES DRESS FINISH

Neck Decorations Can Make or Mar the Dress; Proper Model Adds Touch of Beauty.

Collars are very interesting this season. Always, collars can make or mar the dress and this season they are decidedly of the "making" variety. And what a chic finish the right collar can give!

The sheerest of fine batistes and laces carry dainty embroidery and lace edges of the narrowest threads in gay colors. Sometimes they are round and sometimes they are slightly elongated over the shoulders. Sometimes they are white to form a contrast with the darker fabric of the dress and sometimes they are ecru, so blend in softly with the deeper tan in brown.

Frills, too, have full sway. They ripple from neck to hem of side fastening frocks and they form soft insets in suits which flare slightly at the hand. They appear in batiste and linen and are often, too, of chiffon. Finely pleated chiffon in white is lovely with black velvet or satin.

Among the New Colors. Green is becoming a popular color in millinery. It is particularly liked in the soft shades of moss or almond green. Rust shades are also popular, working into flame color.

Two Tasks in One. When painting is being done around the house, coat the windows in that vicinity with cleaning powder before the painting is started. Then, when the painting is completed, the windows can be cleaned of both powder and paint.

HOW TO PLACE THE DRAPERY

This charming arrangement of drapery is held in place with buckles. The material used is a fawn canton crepe.

FROCKS FOR LITTLE WOMEN

Comfortable Apron Developed in Wool Jersey; Gowns Follow Line of Grownup's Wear.

For the little girls of from four to ten years old the comfortable summer apron dress has been developed in wool jersey. With its woven bloomers and attractive overdress it makes a practical and inexpensive school costume.

One of the most attractive models is to be found in the jumper dress which somehow gives to the eight-year-old a delightfully prim air. In this little dress of dark blue pique twill with its heavy linen blouse, mannish cuffs, equipped with red cuff-links, round collar and red leather belt the little girl becomes a miniature replica of her college sister.

Velvet combined with soft woolen cloth is extremely popular. Most attractive is the brown velvet smock blouse and the lighter brown wool canton crepe skirt. These wool crepes are this season offering a welcome substitute for the ever-present serge. They are somewhat dressier in character and may be used alone or in combination with soft silks or velvets.

Coats are cheaper than they have been for some years past. The dressier models are made for the most part with the loose, full back, but with a conservative sleeve. Best of all for the youthful, though, are the tweeds and mixture weaves. One dark blue imported model is particularly attractive. The material is of uneven roughness, with an almost indistinct pattern worked out in bright fleckings of contrasting blues, reds and tans.

School days call for school frocks. And the word school is indicative of middie blouses and plaid skirts. All white middies may be chosen, or middies with Copenhagen, or red at collars and cuffs, and with a similarly colored emblem on one sleeve. Striped or plaid skirts go with these. These may be box or side plaited.

Over this costume a polo coat may be worn. Polo coats are beloved by every schoolgirl. And here is the latest for the schoolgirl's millinery wardrobe—angora felt hats with grosgrain silk gullies.

For parties, what could be prettier than a white net dress with oodles and oodles of frills? To be worn over this, a white coat with fuzzy rabbit fur trimming. And a white ribbon hat. The picture is proof adequate of its charm.

And then, finally, it may be noted, that here in the land of the jeune fille fashions, simplicity must govern style.

THE HIGH HEELS ARE BACK

Straight Line at Back Rather Than Curved Type; Height Comes With Long Skirt.

Following the vogue for browns, many of the smartest women on the continent complete their costumes with white stockings and brogue slippers.

There is always a smart note in the slipper of brogue, even in seasons when it is not particularly favored, and the new ones with their square colonial buckles are stunning.

Heels, by the way, are at least two inches high for fall. They show the straight line at the back, which is Spanish, rather than the curving outline of the true French heel. High heels are the result of the long skirt vogue, which without doubt has come to stay for a season at least.

Jersey is Popular Fabric. Jersey is a popular fabric for fall street wear. An unusual model developed in this material comes in a very soft shade of green with collar, cuffs and belt of white kid. The skirt is quite circular in cut and the sleeves are long.

Few Trades in Iceland. There are few trades or crafts in Iceland, every man being compelled as a rule to depend upon his own skill for his supplies. The natives usually make their own canvas, shoes, their own harness, and manufacture their saddles.

"DISCOURAGED."

After some eight centuries of experiments in prohibition the Turks seem to be disposed to punish the individual sinner instead of the innocent public. At any rate we read that under a new dry law framed at Constantinople a man caught drunk may be sent to jail for two years. There are no indications that our worried Federal government is likely to turn for refuge to such heroic measures. After the navy defeated in football, went on a "glorious" spree and painted Philadelphia red as it staggered around and vigorously exercised its lungs on the night of November 25, President Harding was reported to be merely "discouraged" and those presuming to speak for the navy heads announced that no courts martial of midshipmen are expected. The news from Chicago indicates that the dry force there is worse than "discouraged." The head of the State enforcement body, after ceasing to order any more raids as useless, has resigned on the ground that "it can't be done." He intimates that he will now turn to more profitable employment by stating that he is "going back to Rockford to hunt rabbits."

Of course the head of the Anti-Saloon League will issue new orders and the commands of a sovereign must be obeyed by all officials, from the President down, but they, one and all, appear to be weary as well as discouraged. Even private persons in positions of responsibility are confessing to the same mortal weariness. For example, the owner of a flat house in New York writes plaintively to the Times "Every one of my tenants who can afford to buy grapes is making wine, and many of them who never did drink before are drinking now. Before prohibition I had peace, at present my janitor is on the visiting list of those who are making wine and I shall have to let him go. The next one I get probably will be worse than this one, drinking what does not cost him a penny." The worst of it is that the bribing, from enforcement officers on down, is by no means confined to free drinks.

ANOTHER TEN "GREATEST"

Still they come—the lists of the "Greatest." This time it is the voice of 750,000 members of the Epworth League announcing the names of the ten greatest mortals of all history. They give Mr. Edison first place, Theodore Roosevelt second, and William Shakespeare third. The other "greatest" chosen are ranked in the following order: Longfellow, fourth; Tennyson, fifth; Herbert Hoover, sixth; Charles Dickens, seventh; General Pershing, eighth; Lloyd George, ninth; Andrew J. Voilestead, tenth.

While no few other persons are shaking with mirth over some of the names of this list of the ten greatest mortals who have walked our planet since it was first formed and swung into its orbit, Mr. Voilestead is no doubt indulging the bitterness of his soul. Naturally, he expected to head the list, and to find himself at the foot, right on top of his defeat in the election, too, is hard indeed. One almost can hear him sadly pronouncing some few of the paraphrases of Zechariah's memorable "I was wounded in the house of my friends." Though critics will scoff at some of the literary as well as at some of the political names, it is worth while to remember the old saying, every one to his taste. And as a whole the list is not much worse than some of the others that have been gratuitously offered to the public.

Secretary Weeks complains that in a year we spend three times as much for chewing gum and candy as we spend for military preparation. Doubtless, but instead of being shocked some of us will be merely reminded of Sir Toby's very human remark: "Dost thou think, because thou art virtuous, there shall be no more cakes and ale?"

It looks, as if England is still far from being "out of the woods" and that Bonar Law may face a bigger sea of troubles than did Lloyd George, with a million and a half Britons tramping the streets out of work, and with Newbold (portentous name), the first Communist member of Parliament, venturing to stand up in that body and say, "If we do not get satisfaction, we shall have to deal with you as Cromwell dealt with his predecessors. There is plenty of precedent for revolution in this country."

The first two women elected to the British Parliament have been re-elected and the first two women members of Congress have been defeated. Is the difference merely a matter of efficiency and the lack thereof, or is it a matter of public attitude in the two countries?

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Department of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1 Please tell how a blackbird builds its nest, and what materials are used?

2 Why are some animals called vertebrates?

3 Given a scuppernon grape vine 8 years old, not crowded, that has profuse growth every year, why does it start a heavy load of fruit each year and throw them all off before half grown?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers To Previous Questions.

Is there any reliable wash that will keep rabbits from gnawing trees?

The general run of washes either do not last long enough to do any real good or are too strong for the bark. Fruit growers are now trying the same lime-sulphur mixture that is used as spray for San Jose scale. Formula is 20 lbs. unsifted lime 15 lbs. flowers of sulphur boiled for an hour with 20 gallons of water. After cooking, dilute by 30 gallons more water. If salt is added this wash will stick well.

Can insects move their eyes?

No they do not need to because their eye-structure allows the eyes to receive reflections of images from many angles, instead of revolving the eye to catch the image, as birds and animals do.

Is there any special reason, beside pleasure, for putting up nesting boxes for birds?

Yes, and more and more so, as tree surgery is increasingly practiced since removing dead or decaying limbs and filling up holes with cement deprives the birds of natural nesting sites. The tree by surgery is protected from many ills, but may be robbed of some of its natural guardians, birds, that check insects. Some of the dead limbs could perhaps be converted into nesting boxes, disinfected in case they contain fungi, and hung approximately in their old sites.

SUITS AND OVER-
COATS FOR BOYS

YOU may as well understand before you come to see these clothes that you can find suits and overcoats for boys that are lower priced than these. We don't want you to be deceived about price.

We aren't deceived about it. We know that quality's by far more important. Unless the quality is right—any price is too much.

These clothes are priced just high enough to get best quality in materials and tailoring; and that makes them cost less than most clothes for boys, because such materials and tailoring wear better.

REV. T. H. BARAGWANATH SAYS KLAN IS A MENACE

St. James' M. E. Church Pastor Speaks on Subject.

Sunday evening the Rev. T. H. Baragwanath, pastor of the St. James M. E. Church, spoke on the Ku Klux Klan before a large audience. He said in the course of his sermon that the aims and methods of the Klan should be brought into the light and if they were discreditable, then, because any movement that fosters racial or religious hatred is a curse, true Americanism will sweep it away, even as similar movements have been in the history of the country. The one remedy for racial, national and class prejudice is the application of the Golden Rule of Christ, which we are too apt to neglect.

ALL HE COULD SAY FOR THEM.

Two famous actors, notices at the game, were playing golf. They were gradually but surely reducing the turf to an approximation of a plowed field. Finally their caddies felt that they could stand it no longer. One turned to the other with: "Did you say these two are actors, Jim?" "Yes, Jo," admitted the second, stung and apologetic, struggling in his voice. "Well," said the first, "all I can say is they might make good scotch shifters."

HOLY CROSS'S ANNUAL FAIR TO BE HELD THIS WEEK.

For many years Holy Cross parish has carried on a useful work for the community at large by throwing open the various classes conducted in its parish house to the public. There is many a woman in Kingston who learned to sew in the Holy Cross sewing school, and there is many a man who has learned the lessons of fair play in the games which he was taught in Holy Cross parish hall, while no end of people have met together there for social enjoyment. Under the present rector, Father Mabry, the parish house has been rebuilt and enlarged in order that the work may be better done. In order to carry on this work for the community each year the various organizations hold a fair for the support of the community work; none of the money goes toward the support of the parish. This work is the contribution of the people of Holy Cross to Kingston.

The annual fair opens tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock. Ten booths of unusual beauty have been constructed in the main hall, in which every kind of gifts appropriate to Christmas will be on display, from beautiful hand made counterpanes and embroideries, children's frocks, unusual cards, quilts, hand-knit Colonial rugs, to a complete booth of Japanese articles from far-away Japan. Besides there are gifts appropriate for men.

On Tuesday night a supper will be served from 5 until 8 o'clock. Thursday night the Junior Branch of the Girls' Friendly Society will entertain the shoppers. On Saturday night the children of the sewing school will offer the entertainment. Every night from Tuesday through Saturday, Belle's orchestra will play for those who wish to dance, and a refreshment booth will dispense refreshments of all sorts.

Mourning Corn in Crib.

To figure the number of bushels of ear corn in a crib multiply the length of the crib by the width by the height by four-ninths if corn is of good quality after several months in crib or by four-tenths if corn is new or of inferior quality. If the corn carries the shock, multiply length by width by height and divide by three. If the width or length of the crib is different at the top and bottom of the pile of corn, use the average.

Chrysanthemum's Many Colors.

While yellow is the color most commonly associated with the chrysanthemum, many other colors are to be seen at the shows, and of course white "mums" are sold by all the florists. Some of the newer shades among the large flowering varieties are charming and, as all garden makers know, the outdoor forms have a considerable color range. It is said that Japan has even a blue-chrysanthemum. After all, though, it is as a yellow bloom that this welcome Chinese immigrant is best known and most admired, for it has won its way into the affections of nations and peoples as the "Golden Flower of the East."

"Jeha."

Jeha is a colloquial name for a conchman, or for one who drives recklessly. It is derived from a biblical source. II Kings, 9:20, "the driving is like the driving of Jehu the son of Nimshi, for he driveth furiously."

Inter-Alleed Commission.

This is the sub-commission of the Allied Commission that is working out the fate of Thrace, to be submitted to the main body meeting in Lausanne, Switzerland. Seated, left to right: Colonel Capriotti of Italy; Chama Pasha, of Turkey; General Filloneau, of France, and Colonel Spencer, of Great Britain. Standing, left to right: Marmout Bey, of Turkey; Lieutenant Wurtz, of France; Commander Gay, of France, and Captain Goumar, of Italy.

Two Meals a Day.

Following is by J. H. Kellogg, M. D.: "The most primitive people take one meal a day. Millions in India eat only once a day, but the majority eat twice a day. The two-meals-a-day plan is the prevailing custom of the world. There are only a few civilized nations that practice eating three or more meals daily. We can eat but twice a day, and eat physiologically; that is, give the stomach an opportunity for proper rest after digesting the food. There should be seven hours from the beginning of one meal to the beginning of the next; at least four hours should elapse between eating and going to bed. This makes more than two meals impossible when one is living on the ordinary dietary."

Mr. and Mrs. Jake McK. Traxler, Jr.

Mrs. Carrie Trout, aged seventy, widow of "Rocky Mountain Dick" Trout, scout with General Custer, is the bride, for the second time, of Jake McKinley Traxler, Jr., aged thirty-one, who is notorious as an "all-around bad man." On their first marriage Traxler used a fictitious name, but later confessed to his aged wife and married her again under his right name.

Prince of Wales
and Lady Mary
Cambridge, etc.

Rumor persists in British Court circles that the Prince of Wales is soon to announce his engagement to Lady Mary Cambridge, a young English beauty, in whose company he is seen constantly. She is the daughter of the Marquis of Cambridge, a brother of Queen Mary. The photograph of the Prince is his latest, taken when he acknowledged the honors of the boys when he opened the William Baker Technical School at Goldings, Hertford, England.

Right, Miss Anna Leuz

Miss Anna Leuz, 10, shown in the garb she wore in a convent, preparing to be a nun, has confessed she caused the death, by sending poisoned candy, of Mrs. Frank Schneider, of Junction, Wisconsin. Miss Leuz, who sent the candy with a forged letter, signed by Mrs. Schneider's sister, declared she intended the candy for Mrs. Henry Schneider, sister-in-law of the victim.

Send me a photo of yourself in next letter. Will close hoping to hear from you again.

In her next letter to the defendant she explains that she is from one of the best Virginia families and tells of expecting to inherit five or six thousand dollars soon. She says, "I am no city flirt. I am very sincere. You think it would not be difficult to fall in love with the original, well I appreciate that very much. I enjoy your letters very, very much and judging from them I would enjoy your company better. I judge you to be very smart and handsome. I am not corresponding with you because I haven't any friends here. I have several friends in Bristol who give me a good time, have one who is a mill-honoree but you see money does not bring happiness every time. I will only marry for love, not for money." She sends an invitation to come to Bristol and get better acquainted and states in the same letter that "Am Irish, English nationality. Am very affectionate. I know that you will judge from my letters that I am a girl, everybody gets me, so you can imagine what a girl I am."

After the meeting at New York and the brief stay in Kingston plaintiff departed for her home in the sunny south and now brings the action for counsel fee and alimony. She claims that she offered her $50 a month if she would go back home and stay.

Attached to the papers is a photograph of plaintiff.

Judge Rosch reserved decision and took the papers.

Best Man a Witness.

A hearing was had in the action for divorce brought by Amy Wheeler against Charles Wheeler. The plaintiff resides in the town of Esopus and the defendant is engaged in business in New York city. After their marriage the parties resided in Brooklyn. According to testimony of the best man at the wedding, the husband on several occasions visited the Hotel York, in New York city, with other women than his wife. Judge Rosch held the case open for further testimony. Frank W. Brooks appeared for the plaintiff, there was no appearance on the part of the defendant.

A Woodstock Case.

A hearing was had in the action for divorce brought by Corliss Rodney against Anna Rodney. The parties were married in 1918 and resided at Woodstock. The husband all lives there but Mrs. Rodney went away October 17, 1921, and is supposed to be living in New York city or Brooklyn, although her husband has been unable to locate her. Several months ago Rodney came in to possession of a letter written by his wife to a tourist Woodstock butcher who is now in business in New York. The butcher on the witness stand remembered having received the letter about 1911, and smiled at the recollection. He said he had known Mrs. Rodney for many years and when in Woodstock he had for a long time visited the house two or three times a week "on business." He has since married and refused to answer certain questions on the ground that it might tend to incriminate or degrade him. The case was held open for further proof. William D. Blinnier, Jr., appeared for the plaintiff, there was no appearance on the part of the defendant.

JOY DIES FROM
FRACTURED SKULL

Remained When He Was Thrown
From Sidecar on Rosendale Road
—Died On Way To Hospital.

Sunday morning Lester Joy of the Hartley Road died while being taken to the Benedictine Hospital to be given treatment for a fracture of the skull sustained when thrown from a sidecar of a motorcycle on the Rosendale road. Joy, who was 35 years of age, was riding with William Kiersted who steered the motorcycle. When near the LaFayette bridge at Maple Hill the motorcycle came to some obstruction in the roadway and the car skidded and went down on its side, Joy being thrown from the sidecar and striking his head on a stone. Dr. Leander G.
Graham of Bloomington, and Dr.
Mark O'Meara of this city were called and finding that a fracture of the skull had been sustained had Joy rushed to the Benedictine hospital, but death ensued before the hospital was reached. Coroner W. N. Conner was notified and had the body turned over to undertaker Leo V. Grogan. Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon, December 5, at 2 o'clock at the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs.
Lester Joy, Hartley. The interment will be in Old Hartley Cemetery.

KATZ SUCCEEDED
BY G. BURGEVIN

As Member of Board of Water Commissioners—Is Used to Business Methods.

Mayor Crane today filed the appointment of George Burgevin as a member of the board of water commissioners to succeed the late Aaron Katz.

Mr. Burgevin is a member of the on Pearl street and whose flower store in the Burgevin building, corner of Main and Fair streets, have been among the most delightful and attractive places of Kingston for a number of years.

For many years Mr. Burgevin has been actively identified with the busi-

Samuel Kaplan was omitted from the list of members of Kingston Lodge printed in The Freeman and in the ## Ambition.

Joe is in the fourth grade, and recently his teacher decided to try to find out the effect of the lessons in ethics; so she called for compositions from her pupils telling what they hope to do in life when they grow up.
Joe's composition read: "When I grow up I want to be a policeman or a soldier or a cowboy. When I am a policeman I'll arrest everybody. When I'm a soldier I'll fight the whole world, and when I'm a cowboy I'll lasso all the people. When I get through with these jobs, I want to be an engineer so I can run over everybody. They will say I am a very desperate man."

Emblem of the Evil Eye.

The tall feather of a peacock is the emblem of an evil eye, an ever-vigilant false friend or traitor. The tale is as follows: Argus was the chief minister of Osiris, king of Egypt. When the king started on his Indian expedition
he left Queen Isis regent, with Argus for her chief adviser. Argus, with his hundred eyes (or rather secret spies), soon made himself powerful, shut up the queen regent in a strong castle, and proclaimed himself king.
Mercury marched against him, and took him prisoner, and cut off his head. Whereupon Juno metamorphosed him into a peacock, and set his hundred eyes in his tail.

NEAR EAST RELIEF
ORGANIZED HERE

The mass meeting called by the mayor for the consideration of the Near East Emergency Fund, at the High School Auditorium on Sunday, was attended by a very intelligent audience. The meeting was called to order by the mayor, who asked the Rev. Dr. Cady to open the proceedings with a prayer.

Rear Admiral Higginson made an address, giving the reasons for the calling of the meeting, and then introduced Postmaster DeWitt as permanent chairman, who after a few brief remarks, told the importance of placing the subject before the people of Kingston who would maintain its reputation for charitable giving, then introduced the Rev. Dr.
Cady, who spoke of his visit to the Near East and of his observations of the great work done by the Red Cross and Near East Relief and its great importance.

Judge Hasbrouck was then presented by Mr. DeWitt. The judge stated that he has been asked by the president of the Red Cross of Ulster County to represent him; that he thought the cause for which the meeting was called a very good one and worthy of support, that the Red Cross had already donated $500 for the making of children's clothing.

Mr. DeWitt then called upon W.
L. Lloyd, formerly of the Australian Imperial Forces during the World War, and later a newspaper correspondent, who gave a very full account of the characteristics of the Turks, which was not very complimentary, and the awful atrocities committed by the Turks in the east, which he and his co-workers had witnessed.

Mr. DeWitt then introduced Dr.
Blanche Norton, a graduate of the medical school of Cornell College, who had spent some time in Asia Minor looking after the orphanages established by the Near East Relief Committee, and had been for some time at Trebizond on the Black Sea.
Dr. Norton's account of the conditions existing in these orphanages was heart rending.

Mr. DeWitt announced that the local committee had arranged to have clothing received at the armory and that P. J. R. Clarke of the National Ulster Bank had consented to become treasurer and that all financial contributions could be sent to him.

He stated that Mayor Crane would hold a meeting at the city hall during the week, the date to be announced later.

Ira Nelson Morris.

Ira Nelson Morris, American Minister to Sweden, has returned to America for a visit over the Christmas holidays.

Island last summer.

Thirty volunteers from a district
Y. M. C. A., have been working four-hour shifts ever since an operation for spine fusion was performed last Friday. By their efforts, the boy is performed the operation predicts that Simon will live.

POULTRY

POINTS ON POULTRY CULLING

Well to Discard Young Cockerels and Pullets That Are Slow in Growing and Feathering.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

In selecting the future flock it is well to discard the young cockerels and pullets that are slow in growing and feathering, and also those that have crooked beaks, backs, legs and tails.

The winter flock of chickens should consist only of the best grown pullets of the year which hold out some prospect of "earning their keep." Culling is usually begun in July and August by successful poultry raisers, and by the end of September all nonproducers should be weeded out of the flock, with a consequent reduction in the feed bill. Hens which have been fed for more than a year and which molt during July and August are likely to be Standardized Flock of One Breed.

slackers and should be the first to go.
The chances are they will not lay again for some time, the poultry specialist of the Alabama experiment station believes. It is usually advisable to standardize the flock by having all of one breed, but there are special conditions under which the raising of two breeds is advised. Those having mongrel chickens will find it profitable to develop a purebred flock, the United States Department of Agriculture advises. This can easily be done within two or three years by buying a few settings of eggs of the desired breed for hatching purposes. Recent investigations at the U. S. experiment farm indicate that quicker results may often be obtained by such a purchase than by grading up the mongrel stock.

SEPARATE PENS FOR PULLETS

By Keeping Breeders Apart From Rest of Flock They Can Be Handled Differently.

It is often desirable to keep the pullets and the older hens separate. It may be that the flock owner will want to use more of the tested hens for breeders, and by keeping them apart from the rest of the flock they can be handled a little differently, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The yearling hens, or sometimes older ones, and the well-developed pullets are better for the breeding flock because the larger eggs produced will bring out larger and stronger chicks.

Some poultry raisers think that the older hens are better than even well-grown pullets that are laying full-sized eggs. They say that the germ cell in the egg from the older bird is stronger.
However, eggs from the best pullets ordinarily will produce satisfactory chicks.

POULTRY NOTES

Success with poultry depends more on health than on breed.

It is a good plan to have hoppers hung on the wall where grit and oyster shell are always accessible.

Good, bright, alfalfa hay mowed from the last cutting will come in handy this winter when green feed is scarce.

If the thought ever comes to you of crossing breeds, forget it. It's a step backward in the chicken business.

These cool mornings foretell the coming soon of cold and stormy days.
It's time to see that the poultry house is made windproof.

Besides being educators, the poultry shows will stimulate your pep and enthusiasm for better chickens, which in turn will increase profits.

It's far better to have the cement

Here is the latest photograph of Professor John P. Tiernan, formerly professor of law in Notre Dame University, South Bend, Indiana, whose marital affairs are interesting again. Following Tiernan's charge that Harry Poulin, a South Bend haberdasher, was the father of Mrs. Tiernan's last baby, he divorced Mrs. Tiernan and immediately married Mrs. Blanche Rash Brimmer, of Hansell, Iowa, his mail order bride. The court that granted the first divorce to Tiernan immediately annulled it, and Tiernan returned to wife No. 1 and admitted paternity of the child. Mrs. Tiernan No. 2 returned to her home in Hansell. Her second husband is shown holding their baby, Mary Catherine Brimmer, now three years old. Verdie Rash is a daughter of Mrs. Tiernan No. 2 by her first marriage. Tiernan now faces a sanity test.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Dec. 4.—The stock market was irregular at the start today. U. S. Steel showed a loss of 1/4 at 102 1/2, while Bethlehem Steel B was 1/4 higher at 61 1/2. Studebaker was 1/4 higher at 124, while Chrysler Motor yielded 1/4 to 60 1/4. Crucible Steel moved up 1/4 to 65 1/4 and American Woolen was 1/4 higher at 96 1/4. Pan American Petroleum fell 1/4 to 92 1/4 and New York Central showed a loss of 1/4 at 96 1/4. American Tobacco and Corn Products were 1/4 higher.

The irregular trading in the first fifteen minutes was followed by weakness during the remainder of the first hour, and at the end of that period, the majority of stocks showed substantial losses, a number of issues being down from 1 to 3 points.

Several issues showed strength early in the afternoon but the demand on that improvement reflected only covering of board room shorts and later declines came.

The market closed irregular, government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds irregular.
